Official Early Intervention (EI) provider. I interviewed her few months ago. She can provide parent counseling and is trained in different child behavioral therapy approach.

I am offering teletherapy for families who aren't receiving services at the moment, or who need support for their specific situations on how to fill the gaps their children are experiencing. If there are families who have EI therapists not offering teletherapy, I could try and step in myself or direct them to people who might have providers available. I have some openings during the week and I am scheduling weekend sessions too.

WORKSHOPS (ZOOM)

Autism Parents Connect (APC) -- Parenting Workshop Series hosted by

APC is a non-profit organization whose mission is to empower parents through education and connection to navigate the complex journey of parenting a child with autism. The interactive zoom workshops combine practical help grounded in evidence-based techniques and a supportive community. Parents gain immediate access to functional tools and an ongoing active learning network to support them during this challenging period.

Participants can register for zoom access by emailing Andrea Pollack
